

Welcome

Welcome to Rethinking Assessment Strategies for Online Learning: A Short Course for Post-secondary Educators. You are about to embark on a journey that will guide you through a transformation in thought and practice, as you explore a different way to approach assessment and feedback in your online, hybrid, and HyFlex courses. You may have come here out of curiosity about different assessment methods, out of necessity brought on by new course delivery modes, or even out of frustration with online assessment challenges. Regardless of your motivation for taking this course, we hope you will find the ideas presented in these four modules informative, enlightening, practical, and inspiring.
